New Committee Is Formed To Aid Women

by Kathy Fisher

A new committee on the role and treatment of women has been appointed by Dr. Larry McGehee.

The chancellor issued a memorandum last Wednesday stating the reasons for this committee and the position of the University concerning the roles of women and blacks on campus.

In this memorandum he outlined the responsibility of every department of the University in complying with all laws, court decisions, and executive orders prohibiting discrimination in employment because of race, color, creed.

GUIDELINES FOR equal opportunity employment on the campus have already been established and two equal opportunity officers have full authority to publicize and enforce these policies.

In the past, social change has been aimed almost strictly at the discrimination against blacks. Although Dr. McGehee feels that this emphasis should not decrease, he feels that additional attention needs to be given to opportunities for and treatment of women, including faculty, staff and students.

MEMBERS OF THE Committee on the Role and Treatment of Women include four faculty women: Dr. Adreen Nichols (chairman), Mrs. Donna Downer, Mrs. Kellie Jones, and Dr. Laurie Grennan. Four students will serve also. They are Iva Mai Hurdle, Joanie Forrester, Janet Barber and Judi Wells.

MRS. BILLIE PACE, alumna and former staff will work with the group as well as Mrs. Martha Williams, registrar.

The two remaining female members will be Mrs. Rosemary Fletcher and Mrs. Betty Pentecost, secretaries. The committee will recommend three men to serve on the committee: one from the faculty, student body and non instructional staff.

THE DUTIES OF the committee are numerous. The members are to assess the present status of women at UTM, noting any instances of discrimination whether it is social or job related.

Another duty is to recommend procedures for securing qualified women applicants for jobs.

THIRD, THE COMMITTEE is to recommend grievance hearing procedures for the fair judging of any complaints of discrimination.

The members are to secure information concerning the available labor market among women.

THE LAST DUTY is to examine any area of student life -- recruitment of students, financial aid, student rules of conduct, registration, etc. -- which may be discriminatory to women and recommend guide lines for phasing out such inequities.

The committee will report periodically to Dr. Campbell and Mr. Gene Stanford who are the equal opportunity officers.

Paper Being Prepared On Transfer Policy

by Robin Taylor

THE QUARTERLY SYSTEMS meeting was held in the University Center last week. The UT System Administrators were the special guests at the luncheon in the ballroom. Other guests included the administrative staff, department heads and student government representatives.

CHANCELLOR LARRY McGehee welcomed the group with an informative speech about developments on campus. Included in his talk were statistics on the economic impact of the UTM campus.

Dr. Edward Boling, President of the UT System, spoke briefly and then requested that the group direct any questions they might have to him or any of the other visiting administrators.

When Dr. Boling was asked his position on having student representatives with a vote on the Board of Trustees, he said that he was against such a move. His reasons were that the student voice is best heard at the committee level and he felt a student vote would be no more than a token vote on the Board.

Dr. Ken Knickerbocker, Vice President of Academic Affairs, was asked about the difficulty of transferring junior college credits. Some difficulty has been encountered with a student that would not have met admission requirements at a four (See page 12, col. 1)

Campaign To Finance New Library Books

A SPECIAL project to raise funds for the purchase of 5,000 new volumes for the University of Tennessee Martin's Paul Meek Library has been launched by the UTM Development Committee.

ACCORDING TO Bob G. Cole, UTM director of development, the project is the largest and most ambitious undertaking to be directed by the 24-man voluntary citizens' group. When successfully completed, it will represent a most significant contribution to the campus.

Every student, faculty member and area citizen will benefit from the increased research tools these new, badly needed volumes will provide, Cole added.

Named chairman of the special projects subcommittee to direct the campaign is Horace Dunagan, president of First State Bank of Caruthersville and Hayti, Missouri. A former U-T Martin student, he earned the bachelor's degree in agriculture at UT Knoxville. (See page 12, col. 1)

DR. SHARON B. LORD, assistant professor of Educational Psychology and Guidance at the University of Tennessee at Knoxville, spoke at U-T Martin, February 15 as a featured guest during UTM's "Careers for Women" seminar. Dr. Lord, who is actively involved with the national women's liberation movement, was recently appointed by Chancellor Archie Dykes to UT Knoxville's Task Force on Women, set up to investigate discrimination on campus. She advised UTM coeds to set about removing "men only" signs from American careers.

Slick Stairway More Than Slight Hazard

by Larry Rhodes

Last Wednesday, at about 9:30 a.m., a coed slipped and tumbled down the stairwell from the fourth to the third floor of the Humanities Building. Needless to say, the young lady received a fair share of bruises and was in at least a mild state of shock as a result of her experience. Witnesses said that she came close to falling through the railing, which could have resulted in a plunge down another two stories to her death.

LUCKILY, the question of safety does not have to be discussed in the aftermath of a death or crippling injury. Still, such an accident is sobering. Are the stairways in the campus buildings as safe as they should be? No one, of course, can argue that absolute safety can be guaranteed, but it can be emphatically argued that efforts should be made toward making our buildings as safe as they are attractive. Providing non-slip rubber runners for our stairs seems not too costly when one measures the possible alternatives.

Another danger is in letting style take precedence over safety. An excellent example of this is the Humanities Building stairwell railings. They are attractive but unsafe. The spaces between railings are large enough to allow a tumbling student to fall through to his or her death or to serious injury. Hopefully, any professor or student who brings his or her young children into the building has enough forethought not to risk letting small children attempt these dangerous stairs alone.

This campus has generally excellent facilities. Our buildings and grounds are maintained admirably and efficiently by a dedicated group of people. The matter of safety, however, especially in regard to the Humanities Building stairwell, needs to be taken more seriously.

Prof's Editorial Gets Reply

Dear Editor:

I would like to cast some reflections on Mr. Jones' guest editorial in the February 16 edition of "The Pacer."

Surely Mr. Jones will not deny that everything candidate Muskie says these days is for the purpose of obtaining votes. And just as certainly, Mr. Nixon replied with his ear to the ground. To try to attach to this incident some great principle other than vote seeking is "swallowing the camel." We will find out in 1972 the political judgment in this calculated exchange that was more astute. Furthermore, I would remind Mr. Jones that it was Muskie who initiated the bombastics, that this is not the same position taken by Muskie in the past, and that Nixon did refrain from playing politics with the Vietnam War in 1968 because Johnson at that time was negotiating with North Vietnam. "Wrapping the American flag" is a caustic aside to distract from sincere concern for the national interest and is thus "unfair" and unsomber.

Also, I would challenge Mr.

Jones to prove his statement that "It is so . . . unfair to imply that any proposal more lenient than the President's will hinder the chances of a negotiated peace." Does anyone think that Muskie's statement is going to end the war sooner than otherwise would have been the case? If his statement is going to have any effect at all it would be toward delay and I would suggest that Mr. Jones' indignation is mis-targeted.

Finally, I must challenge the historical accuracy of the statement "Most political analysts believe he (Humphrey) might have won the election had he" called for a bombing halt. From my recollections, the more accurate statement would be "Most political analysts believe that he might have won the election had he" had another week to campaign, war or no war.

I do applaud Mr. Jones for his courage. Editorial writing is high risk exposure.

No-Attendance Has Support

Dear Editor,

We are writing concerning the recent article revealing the motion passed in the faculty senate meeting on February 1. The motion called for interviews of faculty and students concerning the class attendance policy.

The attendance policy as stated in the 1971-72 Student Handbook says that no instructor may lower a student's grade solely because he does not attend class. The policy goes one step further. It also says that unexcused absences will not be permitted from announced tests, and that instructors who utilize pop quizzes should inform students of their practice. After missing a pop quiz and may expect his grade to be affected accordingly. All these things are specifically stated in the policy and at the beginning of each (See page 12, col. 2)

Projections

The University, last week, presented Women's Career Days. The program gave women who attended an idea of their rights as women and the expanding job market available to them. UTM as usual continued to drag its feet where the issue of equal rights for women is concerned. This is evident in those quaint anachronisms known as Women's Rules. These may have been applicable 10 years or even 5 years ago. Today, their only purpose seems to be to assure parents their daughters won't get into trouble. A survey conducted by independent groups of students at UTM shows just how far we lag behind other state universities and colleges. The 40 schools surveyed ranged in enrollment from 5,000 to a maximum of 12,000 students. The information gathered concerned women's hours and sign-in and sign out procedures. 85 per cent of the schools had no curfew for women students, 10 per cent had a curfew on first quarter freshmen, 4.5 per cent had a curfew for all freshmen women, and .5 per cent placed a curfew on all women. Sign-in and sign-out was voluntary at a majority of the schools.

The Women's Rules Committee is currently conducting a survey of the women students. The results of this survey will determine what type of memorandum will be presented to the Administration for their consideration. This memorandum, if it is not lost, filed, or otherwise caught up in the bureaucracy of the University, will determine what changes if any will occur in the present restrictions on women. The choice of originating change has been given to the women. The outcome of this survey is dependent upon your vote. Those of you who for various reasons think yourselves or the freshmen incapable of handling these freedoms, take into consideration your sisters who are willing to accept these responsibilities.

What the end results will be, I don't know, but if the results are not satisfactory, the possibility of legal action against the university to obtain equal rights exists. I'm not sure if the present rules violate any of the Civil Rights Acts, but I am sure they will violate the Equal Rights Amendment now in the congress. The university, in any event, should treat all students as equals. What applies to women should also apply to men.

Apathy Often Makes Election Look False

Campus Leaders? Who ever heard of those? It's that time again when "Mr. and Miss Pacer" will be chosen along with eight male and eight female leaders on the UTM campus. The office of Secretary of Communications will also be filled in tomorrow's election.

In the past, these elections have been termed as popularity contests. And it is true that not every leader on campus is elected. But this would be virtually impossible. Every name submitted as a nomination is a leader in some area on this campus. The purpose of the election is for the students to choose who, in their opinion, are the campus leaders.

After all, someone had to elect these people, and it definitely wasn't done by those who sat around and complained about last year's results.

It only takes three to five minutes to walk up the steps in the Student Center, show your ID, take a ballot and mark it.

This year, your ID must be presented to vote. Meal tickets, driver's licenses, friends and other means of identification used in past will not be permitted. This rule will be strictly enforced.

Final selections for campus leaders and Secretary of Communications will be tomorrow from 8:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. in the Student Center. Those in the run-off for Secretary of Communications are Joe Barker, Maria Williams

Grant Approved For Beginning Of New Facility

A supplemental federal grant amounting to $200,000 has been approved for the Education-Economics-Nursing Building at the University of Tennessee at Martin. Dr. Jack G. Mays, UTM vice chancellor for development, has announced.

Notification of the grant came February 16 from Eighth District Congressman Ed Jones in Washington. The grant was made available under Title I of the Higher Education Facility Act of 1963.

Construction on the 100,000 square-foot building is expected to begin in the spring, said Dr. Mays. Expected to be com-

Political Panel Set Thursday

On Thursday, February 24, at 7:30 p.m., a panel discussion will be held in the Humanities Auditorium. The topic to be discussed will be "The Role of the Supreme Court in Contemporary American Society," and the discussion will focus specifically on the three areas of (1) law and order, (2) civil rights, and (3) internal subversion. The participants will be Dr. George Kao, Dr. Theodore Mosch, and Mr. Richard Chesteen, the political scientists of the department of History and Political science. Lonnie E. Maness will serve as moderator.

As you know there has been a good deal of stress put on relevancy, and this is a most relevant topic for our times. The Supreme Court, over the last two decades, has made a number of very important decisions which deal with the topics that are to be covered. Thus, the panel will be discussing an ever changing institution that has affected, and will continue to affect, the lives of all of us. When the panelists have finished their presentations the general audience will be permitted to ask questions.

Book Review

The First Baptist Church of Nashville Tennessee: 1820-1870. By Lynn E. May, Jr. (Nashville: First Baptist Church, 1970) $4.95. Reviewed by Dr. Charles F. Ogilvie. This review originally appeared in the August, 1971 issue of The Journal of Southern History.

Often, "church histories" have been, in reality, examinations of national organizations, denominational bureaucracies, and newspapers distant from local pastors and church members. Especially among Baptists, the denomination is not the church, and the individual member has been, almost exclusively, connected with his local organization. It is advantageous, therefore, for historians studying popular religion to examine the history of representative congregations. In providing this study of a large "downtown church" Dr. May has rendered a definite service to the profession, although he admits that the intended audience is the lay member of the church itself.

The character of the book is set by the author's being hired and "advised" by a committee of the congregation and by its being published by the church, but to the extent to which it displays the attitudes and preconceptions of the membership it may be regarded as a primary rather than a secondary source. While the student of historical theology will find material concerning conflicts in the chapters on the nineteenth century, he will find almost nothing about them in those on the twentieth. Since the church could not have had leaders of the Sunday School Board (which was a target of the Fundamentalists in both the 1920's and the 1960's) without having been shaken in the storms, the ignoring of the later controversies should have meaning to both the ecclesiastical and social historian. They may also find significant the almost complete neglect of the race question. Along with the urban historian, they will be interested in the attempts of the church to serve the suburban family, the ghetto child, and the elderly members of the middle class caught in a deteriorating neighborhood. Was it because of the self-satisfied and complacent attitude of the suburban group or because of the needs of the residents of the inner city that the church increased its music and recreation programs to equal, or exceed, its evangelistic mission? Might this indicate that the church is a creature of society as much as or more than, a creator of it? May's study will be a resource for investigating such questions. It does not present the answers.

Within the limitations of its genre, the book must be considered a success, although it is concerned basically with pastors, programs, and buildings; emphasizes accomplishments over failures; evaluates leaders in blacks or whites; and gives an idyllic picture or personal relations within the church. For the researcher willing to scratch below the surface and for the reader interested in being exposed to the flavor and jargon of the receding old revivalistic church and of the emerging new service organization, THE FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH OF NASHVILLE, TENNESSEE is valuable.

Nelson Benefit Concert Scheduled Monday Night

A CONCERT by world-renowned pianist Allison Nelson will highlight an evening of cultural entertainment set for February 28 at the University of Tennessee at Martin.

DR. NELSON, artist-in-residence and recently appointed professor of music at UTM, will present the concert at 8 p.m. in the Performing Arts Theater of the Fine Arts Building. All proceeds from the concert will go to the Harry Neal Endowment Fund established recently in memory of the late Dr. Neal.

The endowment will provide an annual scholarship for a talented piano student at UTM, said Bob Cole, UTM director of development. The university faculty and staff already have contributed more than $1,000 toward the fund's $10,000 goal. Minimum donation to the fund for admission is $2.50 a person.

As a special feature of the evening, art work by the freshman students of Miss Aaltje

Van Denburg, associate professor of related art and crafts and a well known regional artist, will be exhibited in the lobby gallery of the Fine Arts Building.

Persons attending the concert will be honored at a reception in the Chancellor's Residence immediately following the performance.

According to Mr. Cole, Allison Nelson and Harry Neal comprised the professional duo known as Nelson and Neal which played more than 1,200 concerts throughout the world. Dr. Neal, a native of Paris, died September 15, 1968.

Tickets may be purchased through the Department of Music and the Office of Development at U-T Martin or from members of the Paris Kiwanis Club.

VANGUARD THEATER will present "The Crucible," Arthur Miller's famous play about the Salem witch trials at the Theater of the Performing Arts in the Fine Arts Building on Thursday, Friday, and Saturday at 8 p.m.

Admission is $1.00 for students and $1.50 for all others. Tickets may be picked up at the box office in the lobby of the Performing Arts Building and reservations may be made by calling 587-7536.

Controversial Group, Black Oak, To Appear In Concert Tonight

Black Oak Arkansas, Atco recording group, is in concert Feb. 23 at the University of Tennessee.

THE SIX-MAN GROUP, which claims an Ozark heritage, is always on the go, either at colleges, night clubs or in concert. Even when they don't get the top billing, they manage to steal the headlines and the show.

Black Oak Arkansas (they're from that tiny community in Arkansas) has been described as "nitty gritty, down home rock'n' roll with a country flavor... earthy, but religious, and even occasionally sentimental."

THE LEAD SINGER is probably the most controversial male sex symbol on stage since the early days of Elvis Presley, and the band is one of the most controversial today.

Having been together for more than seven years, they have achieved a firm interaction and meshing of musical gears that is fairly uncommon in rock groups.

THEIR LATEST ALBUM is "Keep the Faith," and it has the actual sound of the Feb. 9, 1971 earthquake in Southern California recorded on one of the tunes.

They give an obvious "raunchy" appearance on stage, but it's all a big put-on. Members are Jim Mangrum, Stanley Knight, Harvey Jatt, Rickie Lee Reynolds, Pat Daugherty and Wayne Evans.

Choral Concert Is March 6th

An interesting program of choral music including literature from the Renaissance, Baroque, Romantic and Contemporary periods of music history will be presented Monday evening March 6, in the Fine Arts Building at the University of Tennessee at Martin.

Today's People will perform "pop" and "rock" music, both vocal and instrumental. Selections will include, "Living in Heat" by Chase, "Take Me for a Little While" by Vanilla Fudge, "Superstar" by the Carpenters, and "Let Me Take You Higher" by Ike and Tina Turner. Also included on the program will be the Choralairs performing literature such as: "Psalms 66" for a double choir by Hans Leon Hassler, and "Jesus and the Traders" by Zoltan Kodaly. "Pop" music such as, "Our Day Will Come," and "Do You Know the Way to San Jose" will be performed by the Coeds.

Since the choral concerts invariably draw capacity crowds, those wishing to attend should make reservations during the week beginning February 28. A donation of $1.00 will be charged with all proceeds going to the Harry Neal Memorial Endowment Scholarship Fund. Tickets are available in the Music Office of the Fine Arts Building. Curtain time is 8:00 p.m. on March 6. The public is invited to attend.

Secretaries To Sponsor Easter Fashion Show

The Secretaries Club of the University of Tennessee at Martin will sponsor an Easter Fashion Show Tea on Sunday, March 12, at 2:30 p.m. in the Fine Arts Building Theatre. Proceeds from the annual benefit program will be used to sponsor the club's charitable projects. Mrs. Linda Reiselt of the Office of Admissions and Records reminds Ed Neal White, administrative assistant to the Vice Chancellor for Development, that they will be narrating this year's event. Fashions from 11 participating stores will modeled, including Town and Campus, The Collegiate Shop, The Round Table, D.J.'s, The Fashion Corner and Mary Lee's, all of Martin; Kemp's and Delores's House of Fashions of Dresden; Irene's Fashions of Gleason, Roberts of Sharon; Libby's of Union City, and The Daisy of Fulton, Kentucky. Special music and door prizes will add to the afternoon's entertainment. Tickets at $1.50 each may be purchased from members of the Secretaries Club or by telephoning 587-7525.

TOUCHING UP--Harold Vowell of the physical plant dresses up the model of the campus which is being displayed this quarter at various places around the campus.

Campus Expansion Requires Planning As Model University Demonstrates

by Robin Taylor

UTM of the future is on display. The 4 foot by 6½ foot model, presently on display in the Administration Building, locates all University owned properties and proposed facilities which includes land acquisitions.

The proposed facilities shown in the model include not only those facilities which have already been approved such as the Home Economics, Education, Nursing Building but also those in early stages of planning such as the next housing for single students -- located west of Mt. Pella Road.

The service area of the campus, considered to be the University Center and the Library, will eventually be located at the center of the campus. Careful planning and gradual property acquisition will facilitate growth to the south and west. The THEC recommendation to the legislature for the Martin campus for 1972-73 includes a request for $165,000 for land acquisitions. Hopefully these funds will be obtained and more will follow next year.

Mayor Cliff Weldon and the City Planning Commission have been especially helpful by recognizing the direction of UTM and assisting the University with their plans. It is planned that the proposed bypass shown to the west will eventually be the campus's natural boundary. In keeping with the Campus Master Plan, the University will seek to acquire this additional land between the main campus and the bypass.

The 15-acre quadrangle around which the academic buildings are centered was no accident -- it is the hub of the walking campus. Detailed planning of the campus began with Dr. Paul Meek and his staff and later with the Campus Planning Committee. The Planning and Development Office was not established on campus until four years ago. The office is headed by Dr. Jack Mays.

Serious planning has gone into many of the details of this campus. Four years ago a professional landscape architect did a study to see where walks should be located. The walks have no square corners because people don't walk in squares. The walk system is a necessary part of a walking campus and will eventually connect all facets of the campus including University Courts.

Most buildings on campus have parking facilities planned with them. Commuters park on the perimeter of the campus and resident students are provided parking spaces at residence halls. Both commuters and non-commuters are expected to walk to class.

Planning is a complicated and involved task. In 1962 the 1980 enrollment was predicted to reach 3,170; however, this enrollment was attained in 1967. The Tennessee Higher Education Commission predicted this year that enrollment for 1980 will reach 6,300. UTM is one of the fastest growing higher education institutions in the state, but it is anticipated that this growth will soon level off.

Predicting the future is a tricky business. Many wonder why the University Center wasn't simply built larger in the first place. When the six year old structure was being planned there were only 1,847 student on campus. Self-amortizing projects such as this can be planned only with enrollment projections which seem to be attainable. Self-amortized projects are paid with student fees.

The value of the present physical plant shown on the model is approximately $30,000,000. The structures shown that are presently under construction will increase the value by about 8.5 million dollars.

The campus has come a long way. In 1961 the total value of the physical plant was only 4.5 million dollars. The model shows what the physical plant may be in five years. Its value would then be nearly 56 million dollars.

Pre-Legal Society Grows Into Active Organization

by Mary Lou Lessenberry

Recently recognized on campus is the Pre-Legal Society made up of thirty members.

To stimulate interest in the study of law is the purpose of the group.

Local lawyers, judges, and speakers from law schools including Memphis State, UT Knoxville, and Vanderbilt have been asked to visit Martin. Setting up a review for the Law School Admission Test and plans for the annual Law Day, USA, which is May 1st are underway.

Dan Huffstutter, a counselor in Freeman Hall, is chairman of the committee on law catalogues. In the past, UTM has not had many law school catalogues. With the cooperation of the School of Liberal Arts, Dan has sent letters to every law school in the nation seeking their latest catalogues. So far about 147 schools have responded. These will be placed in the reserve section of the library. The Pre-Law Handbook and other books will also be placed there. These catalogues and books can be checked out by anyone.

Cubettes

The Cubettes are planning to work with the Phyettes on several of their future projects. They will work together in roadblocks during the upcoming drive for St. Jude's Children Research Hospital, and also in All-Sing. A rummage sale planned for last Saturday has been moved ahead as a spring quarter project. This sale is an effort to raise needed funds for East Pakistan refugees through UNICEF. Any items you wish to donate for such a cause will be gladly accepted by any Phyettes member or pledge.

In addition, the Cubettes plan to help decorate for the Easter Seal fund raising dinner which will take place on February 28.

ADPi

The new officers of Delta Upsilon are Ann Smith, President; Beanie Myatt, Vice President; Camille Carrington, Recording Secretary; Mary Kate McCormick, Corresponding Secretary; Sue Kuhn, Treasurer; Marcia Kiel, Guard; Cindy Garner, Chaplin; Nancy Bond, Reporter Historian; and Suzanne Farley Registrar. Congratulations to these girls!

LAST SATURDAY the AD-Pi's held their winter social, The Diamond Ball, at the Trenton Country Club.

ZTA

The Zetas social was held Friday night at the Martin Armory with "August" playing. This was our open social and each member could bring one couple. We hope ouguests enjoyed the social as much as we enjoyed having them. We would like to extend a special thanks to Captain Cliff Beasley and Gayle Wulk for chaperoning the social.

IPA

Several members of the faculty will be attending the Sixty-Seventh Annual Meeting of the Tennessee Philogical Association to be held at David Lipscomb College on February 25-26, 1972. Planning to attend are: Edmundo Robaina, Maria Malone and Muriel Tomlinson of the Modern Foreign Languages Department, and John McCluskey, James Spears, Robert Brengle, Martha Battle, Walter Haden, William Bennett, and Mildred Payne of the English department.

International Club

The International club will have its last meeting this quarter on Thursday, February 24 at 6:30 in the sociology building. A discussion will be held on student freedom in other countries.

PiKA

The brothers of Epsilon Sigma were hosts of the District 13 Convention held this weekend at the Student Center.

A welcoming get together was held on Friday night. Saturday morning through the afternoon, meetings were held to discuss future plans of our district and Pi Kappa Alpha. On hand to lead the meeting was Jim Cavendish, District President, and John Kaegi, Director of Alumni Affairs at the National Office. After the business meeting, a banquet and cocktail party was held at the Biltmore in Union City.

Chemistry Club

Dr. Lamar Field, Professor of Chemistry at Vanderbilt, will speak on "Some Interdisciplinary Chemical Research" Thursday, the 24th in the Engineering and Physical Sciences Building, Room 204 at 4:30 p.m.

Students interested in graduate work at Vanderbilt contact him between 3:30 and 4:30 p.m. in the EPS Building.

Biology Club

Mr. Wayne Chester of the Department of Physical Sciences will discuss selected topics in environmental conservation during the Monday, February 28, meeting of the Biology Club. The club will meet at 7:00 p.m. in room 211 of Brehm Hall. Attendance is open to all those concerned with conserving our environmental sources.

APQ

Last Friday, brothers Homer Blair, Don Fortner, Calvin Moore, Jeff Moore, Cary Hayes, Terry Mathis, Wendell Wainwright and Chuck Young met in Nashville to discuss the push for St. Jude. At the meeting Governor Dunn presented the delegation with a proclamation calling for all Tennesseans to support the "Push For St. Jude Week," March 15-21.

Phi Mu A

The winter quarter pledge class of the Sig Psi chapter started with the installation of pledges Buddy Leach, Mike Lynch, Eugene Sisk and Chris Turk.

This chapter is assisting the Gamma Delta chapter at Murray State University in the promotion and sale of tickets to its traditional musical production "Campus Lights." It will run February 14, 15, and 16. Tickets may be obtained by contacting any Sinfonian or by calling the house at 587-4231.

SGA Sign Contest

The winner in the SGA spirit-sign contest is Phi Epsilon Mu. Sixteen organizations participated in this contest at the home basketball games. All signs were judged by the SGA and the winner was based on the organization having the best and most signs up at the last four home games.

Dr. Lord Urges Women's Rights; Panel Discusses Varied Careers

by Kathy Fisher and Joanie Forrester

THE FIRST ANNUAL WOMEN'S CAREER PROGRAM held at UTM on February 15 and 16 proved to be fairly successful. A number of women as well as some men turned out both nights to hear the speakers who were presented by the women's residence halls.

On Tuesday night the speaker was Dr. Sharon Lord, assistant professor of Educational Psychology and Guidance at the University of Tennessee at Knoxville. Dr. Lord is involved with women's groups on the campus and was recently appointed to the Chancellor's Task Force on Women.

Dr. Lord discussed the role of women in today's careers, ex-PLICITLY stressing the significance of "free-will" over the traditional life style which limits the woman in her choices.

She described the way in which the attitudes of society place a woman in an unaggressive, unquestioning, "pink-and-frilly" world where the male "naturally" assumes the superior domineering role. One of her primary beliefs is "no subordination of one towards the enhancement of the other."

Some topics of special interest included military service and discrimination against women students. Dr. Lord believes that if women want equal rights they must accept equal responsibility for military service, especially in clerical positions. She admitted that often administrations don't take the problems of female students seriously, and suggested that if survey reports & memorandums do not help, then women students should protest to the courts and fight for their civil rights.

Dr. Lord concluded that this discrimination is subtle in nature, and women must be aware of it. Nothing but tradition keeps women in the lower positions in the work force, and these traditions can be overcome.

The second night of the women's career program featured a panel discussion by a group of distinguished career women. It was held in the Humanities Auditorium at 7:00 p.m. on February 16.

The moderator for the panel was Mrs. Peggy Addicks, director of women's activities for the U.T. General Alumni Association. Mrs. Addicks introduced each panelist and gave a brief summary of her career.

The first panelist to speak was Mrs. Mary Anderson, former candidate for the Democratic nomination for Governor of Tennessee. Mrs. Anderson spoke on the role of women in the political power structure. She feels that women have a responsibility to share in the decision making of our government. Mrs. Anderson believes that if women shared in governing, many of the ills which now trouble the world would be diminished. She stated that "those who bring life into the world should have something to say about war and peace which will affect this life."

Mrs. Lois Freeman, personnel staffing specialist for the Memphis area office of the U.S. Civil Service Commission, was the second speaker. In her address, Mrs. Freeman described the various fields of work open in the federal government. The positions open to women are almost unlimited now, and salaries are now almost consistently equal with those of men.

The field of television broadcasting was discussed by Miss Delores Weaver of the news staff of WREC in Memphis. Miss Weaver's job involves working with about 20 men on a day to day basis. She suggests that women interested in pursuing such a career should receive as much education as possible while gaining first hand experience by working in the lower jobs.

Mrs. Marijean Canfield, part-time fashion consultant and model for Sears Roebuck and Company, was the fifth member of the panel. She stated that although fashion seemed rather frivolous after the work of the other panelists, it is an important facet of a woman's life. Mrs. Canfield told of the various careers within the fashion industry: designing, modeling, buying fashions for a store, and display work.

After the discussion a question and answer period was held, and then refreshments were served in another room so that the panelists could meet some of the girls present and answer individual questions.

Steak Winners Named In Free-Throw Tourney

Steaks are on the fire for the winners of the Open Free-throw Tournaments which were completed February 17 at the Old Gym. Many students participated in this event, but the faculty was not well represented. The winners of the first tournament, for all university women, was Kathy Jones making 26 out of 30 throws. Second was Amy Baldridge, and third was Regina Kirk.

The winner of the second tournament, for physical education majors and extramural players, was Ann James making 26 out of 30 throws. Second place fell to Phyllis Guthrie and third place was a three way tie between Barbara Crutcher, Ginny Whitley, and Diane Rickman.

The third tournament winners for coed competition, was a tie between Randy Dabbs and his partner Rita Sanders, and Barbara Crutcher and her partner Ken Taylor. The couple in second place was Ken Redmond and Kathy Wray, and the third place couple was Glen Lowe and Diane Rickman. The fourth tournament, for the faculty, was won by Mr. Bill Fron. Miss Gayle Wulk came in second and Miss Ida Chadwick came in third. Congratulations to all the winners and enjoy your free steak dinners courtesy of the T-Room and The Place.

Pacers Post Victory Over CBC

by Buddy Smothers

Thursday, February 17, proved to be a good night for UTM's Pacer basketball team as they handed Christian Brothers College a 77-69 setback. The Buccaneers owned a 32-25 halftime lead, but CBC could not keep pace with the Pacers in the second half. The victory averaged two earlier losses at the hands of the Bucs.

Jimmy Bentley was UTM's leading scorer with 15 points. He was closely followed by Marcus McLemore and Fred Sanders, who contributed 14 to the Pacer cause. Sanders won the board battle, grabbing 16 rebounds.

The Pacers tied the game for the first time at 54-54 and went on to outscore Christian Brothers by eight points in the final ten minutes of the game. The victory marked UTM's eighth win of the season.

The Pacer cagers did not have much good luck Saturday night at Jackson. UTM fell to Union University 87-63. No Pacer scored in double figures. Tony Rodgers led the Pacers with nine points, UTM now holds an 8-15 overall season record.

Jack Bendure is currently the season's leading scorer, averaging 11.9 points per game. Marcus McLemore has 10.6 points per game, and John Robinson averages 10.2 per outing. Bendure also holds the season's rebounding title, with 8.1 average. Following closely behind him are Fred Sanders with a 7.7 showing and Marcus McLemore, who averages 6.5 a game.

The Pacers next home game is Saturday night, February 26 in the fieldhouse: UTM will take on Southeast Missouri. The previous meeting between these two teams was in the in the Girardot Classic at Cape Girardeau, Missouri. The Pacers lost this confrontation by score of 95-87. The junior varsity game will precede the varsity game, as the UTM JV's play the SEMO junior varsity team. The junior varsity game starts at 5:30 in the fieldhouse.

Golf Season Opens Soon

Hopeful of a fourth consecutive postseason NCAA tournament bid, UTM athletic director Bob Paynter has released a 19-match, three-tournament 1972 Pacer golf schedule.

The Pacers open in Memphis against Missouri Valley Conference rival Memphis State University on March 20 and conclude the lineup on May 8 at Cape Girardeau, Mo., in a quadrangular match with Southeast Missouri State, Indiana State and the University of Missouri at Rolla.

Sprinkled in the lineup are encounters with Southeastern Conference rival Mississippi and Ohio Valley Conference foes Austin Peay State, Middle Tennessee State and Murray State. Tourney action will be seen at the Tennessee Intercollegiate, the Mid-South Classic and the Gulf South Conference Classic.

The Pacers have earned national recognition the past three seasons with high finishes in the national tournament. After qualifying and earning a bid to compete in the events, UTM teams finished ninth in 1969, tenth in 1970 and twelfth in 1971.

The Pacers finished 12-5-1 in regular season play last season and bowed out of the Volunteer State Athletic Conference by walking off with their third consecutive league title. The team also won the Tennessee Intercollegiate and finished second in the Mid-South Classic. Two players, Ray Scott of Savannah and Gary Baker of Martin, are returning All-State performers.

Dual Win Sets Record At 15-3

by Buddy Smothers

The Junior Varsity Basketball team continued along its record setting pace with victories over SEMO 103-90 and Budweiser of Dresden 115-85 last week. In the last seven games, the j.v.'s have averaged scoring better than 100 points per game. Thus far the season high for one game is 119 against Bethel.

AT SOUTHEASTERN MISSOURI the Pacers placed six players in double scoring figures. Jim Martin and David Belote contributed 21 points each to the Pacers cause. Other high scores were Tim Furches 19, Arthur Boykin 15, Marty Jacobus 12, and Larry Lingle 11. UTM held a 49-42 halftime advantage.

A 71 point second half helped the j.v.'s to yet another victory (See page 12, col. 5)

Pacer's GSC Tournament Debut Starts February 28

Hoping to make amends for some disappointing performances during the 1971-72 cage campaign, the University of Tennessee at Martin basketball team is concentrating on offensive execution in preparation for its Gulf South Conference Tournament opener against Nicholls State University.

The Pacers make their league classic debut at 7 p.m. on February 28 in the Walter Sillers Coliseum, site of the first conference tournament, on Delta State College's campus. Tip off is set for 7 p.m.

Seeded sixth in the eight-team tourney, the Pacers drew a formidable foe in third-seeded Nicholls State of Thibodeaux, Louisiana. Scouting reports reveal an awesome front line and aggressive Colonel cage crew. Nicholls State is 14-5 for the season while UTM sports a respectable 8-15 rebuilding season worksheet.

The Colonels are led by 6-8,

240-pound center Cleveland Hill, one of the loop's foremost centers. Hill, a senior, is scoring at a 19-point clip and dragging in 14 rebounds an outing.

U-T Martin's Marcus McLeMore currently holds the Pacers scoring lead with 234 points and a 10.6 average through 22 games. Center Jack Bendure, a 16-game regular, is scoring at an 11.9-point pace.

Junior center Fred Sanders maintains the rebounding lead with 154 caroms followed by Bendure with 130 and Mike Casey with 121.

The Gulf South Conference pairings with corresponding Carr Ratings which determined the tourney seeds are Southeast Louisiana (4) vs. Florence State (5) at 1:30 p.m., Livingston (2) vs. Troy State (7) at 3:30 p.m., U-T Martin (6) vs. Nicholls State (4) at 7 p.m. and Delta State (1) vs. Jacksonville State (8) at 9 p.m.

Winners advance to semifinal action on Wednesday evening beginning at 7 p.m. with the tourney title game set for 7:30 p.m. on Thursday.

The complete 1972 U-T Martin golf schedule includes:

The Women's Open Badminton winners have not been forgotten. The tournament was held the 10th, 11th and 12th of January and the names of the winners have failed to appear in the paper. Marilyn Brandenburg captured the tournament with Delle Rhue Burgess coming in second and Karon Parnell in the third place slot.

Students, please don't forget the Sorority Basketball finals. One game will be played Wednesday, February 23 at 6:00 p.m. and the final game on Thursday, February 24 will surely have plenty of action for everyone. So come and cheer for your favorite team.

Coed B-Ballers Win 2, Lose 1

UTM picked up victory number 8 against Jackson State. This game was closer than the earlier encounter in Martin when UTM won in a run away. Pat Head was the leading scorer with 17 points. Esther Stubblefield totaled 12 points for the night.

Memphis State is the most recent victim of the Pacer squad. Pat Head led in scoring with 17 points and was followed by Esther Stubblefield who had 13 points.

In the three game series Miss Head pulled down 49 rebounds and scored 56 points. The season record now stands at 9-5.

In last week's Extramural Basketball action, UTM lost to Tennessee Tech, 54-52, and won victories over Jackson State, 54-45, and Memphis State, 44-30. Against Tech, Pat Head tossed in 22 points to lead UTM in scoring. Wray was the only other Pacer player to reach double figures as she ended the night with 13 points. So far this year Tennessee Tech has enjoyed great success against UTM as they have beaten them three times.

year college and tried to transfer from a junior college. Some students after two years at a junior college have been required to return to high school and make up deficiencies in certain subjects. Also junior colleges have been teaching upper division classes when four year colleges do not consider them authorized to teach such courses. Dr. Knickerbocker answered that a position paper on the transfer of credits to four year colleges is being prepared by the System. The paper should make clear UT's position on transfer of credits.

Dr. Charles Weaver, Vice President for Continuing Education, also spoke about several programs of continuing education. The programs include possibly teaching freshman courses at Martin on closed circuit television, and developing a system wide co-op program. Another important program under development is a testing center to give credit for what a student already knows.

Another topic discussed was the law suit against UT concerning the UT night school in Nashville and Tennessee State University.

Campaign

SELECTED TO serve with Mr. Dunagan are Mayor Ray Smith of Camden, attorney W. Frank Crawford of Memphis, merchant Robert Holman of Trenton and Eighth District Congressman Ed Jones of Yorkville.

"The UTM Development Committee believes there is no better way to touch the lives of all students than through expanded research facilities such as the Paul Meek Library," said Dunagan. "By U.S. Library standards, we should have 250,000 books on our shelves for a student body of 5,000. Currently there is a deficiency and our committee wants to improve this situation."

THE COST OF A volume ranges between $9 and $10, said head librarian Joel Stowers. In effect, the development committee is launching a campaign to raise more than $45,000 in new volumes.

"It's a big goal," said Mr. Dunagan, "but we are confident that there is sufficient support to help us put this project over the established goal."

OUR NEW SOURCE of library support is coming from individuals and organizations who wish to leave books as memorials. According to Mr. Cole, the custom at UTM is growing. Persons donating $100 annually to the Paul Meek Library are purchasing nine books and can select as many individuals to be noted on bookplates. Letters of acknowledgement are sent to the honored individual or his family, to the donor. The Committee, headed by Hardy Graham of Union City, raised $100,124 in direct and deferred gifts for the UTM campus during 1971.

In regard to a motion passed January 31, 1972, the House of Representatives is now responsible for counting votes for all campus wide elections, with the stipulation that the same attendance policy be enforced as in regular House meetings. Two special meetings have been called in order to count the ballots of this coming Tuesday and Thursday Mr. and Miss Pacer, and Secretary of Communication Election, at 5:00 p.m. in the Student Center Conference Rooms on February 22 and 24.

AS IN THE PAST, the SGA Scholarship Fund has provided cash awards to each of the five finalists in the pageant. The total amount for this year is $350. With help from the organizations, SGA can continue to award cashscholarships to the finalists.

Failing students with complaining parents should not be allowed to blame their incompetence on the policy. The responsibility to attend class should be attained with an achieving attitude.

More students may have failed subjects last quarter and some of these may be attributed to the new policy. However, the reasons stated in the article against the policy just do not retain validity.

Olson Displays Unusual Hobby

by Barry Elliott

At least one UTM senior has a most unusual hobby. Bob Olson, a psychology major from Memphis, makes and sells multi-color wax objects. Not only does Bob enjoy making the objects, mostly candles, but he is making money from his hobby.

During his first three weeks of sales, Bob sold around 75 candles. With prices ranging from 20¢ to $3.00, Bob is off to a strong start. Combinations of orange and white colors have sold best according to Bob. But, he emphasizes, there are many other colors in his stock.

The most unique style sold is one shaped in the form of a light-bulb. The liquid wax is poured into a light-bulb, from which the metal elements have been removed. The wax is allowed to harden and then the glass is broken away to leave the hardened wax intact and formed after its unusual mold.

According to Bob, scented candles are very popular. By walking down the halls of some dormitories, one can detect the exotic scents of Sandalwood, Jasmine, or Orange Blossom. Customers prefer these scents, Bob says.

Besides his flourishing candle-making business, Bob admits that anything connected with the fine arts intrigues him. A nature love, Bob also derives much pleasure from reading Hermann Hesse, Henry David Thoreau, Mark Twain, and other authors.

Phones To Be Installed In G-H

by Robtn Taylor

Provisions for telephones in G-H dorm and changes in the housing of students were the major topic of discussion at a recent Housing Committee meeting.

The recommendation that phones be permanently installed in G-H was made by the Committee and approved by Chancellor McGehee. The additional fee of $12 will be added to the dorm fee per quarter as opposed to the present $15 additional charge for having a private phone. This arrangement will eliminate confusion and time delay in having the phones connected. The theory behind the decision is that a student not wanting a phone can live in another residence hall that does not have phones.

At an earlier meeting the Housing Committee made a tentative decision to recommend the change of McCord to a coed dorm like G-H, and to change Ellington to a women's residence hall. These plans were to become effective in fall of '72.

After closer examination, the decision was changed. All residence halls will remain as they presently are. Due to such a late decision, the change was impractical. Applications for residence reservations are already in the hands of high school seniors, and many already have returned applications. It would be virtually impossible to reorganize the system at this time.

The committee meets on call, usually two or more times a quarter. The chairman of the Committee is Colonel George Freeman. Also included in the Committee are several faculty and staff members and four student representatives.

Campbell Set To Speak

Will D. Campbell, Director of the Committee of Southern Churchmen and Publisher of Katallagete magazine, will speak at the Wesley Foundation Sunday, February 27, at 10:45 a.m. and 5:30 p.m.

Mr. Campbell is author of a book on religion and race entitled Race and The Renewal of the Church. His most recent book is Up to our Steeples in Politics. Mr. Campbell is a resident of Nashville, Tennessee. He has been known as chaplain to the KKK, as an employee of the National Council Churches, as a Campus Minister at the University of Mississippi and Southern Baptist Minister.

Will Campbell has been featured in recent articles by Life and New South magazines. He is a much sought after speaker by college and university groups.

Signs To Come To Hurt Street

The Campus Community Cooperating Committee proposed that no parking signs be installed on the north side of Hurt Street. The signs are to be installed Friday to prohibit parking across from the BSU to opposite the Phi Sig house.

The CCCC proposed the no parking signs for safety purposes. When vehicles are parked on both sides of the street two meeting cars can not pass.

The CCCC includes students, three business people appointed by the mayor, and three faculty or staff members.
